

STUDENT INVESTIGATIONS

THE LEGAL AND PRACTICAL GUIDE

Over one comprehensive day, you will gain practical and up-to-date information that you can put to work immediately following the program, including:

- First and foremost - understanding the law, policies and guidelines that guide your actions
- When do you report an incident to the police or CAS?
- What information can you share with staff or students to facilitate an investigation?
- When might an expulsion report be sent back to a Principal for additional information?
- The importance of considering “mitigating and other factors”
- How do you preserve confidentiality?
- What do you do when the student facing allegations has a disability including mental health concerns?

Don't Miss the chance to participate in a hands-on mock investigation to gain the skills and practical knowledge you can put to work right away.

End your day of learning by applying what you've learned into an interactive case study. There's no better way to reinforce the learning of the prior sessions than by working with colleagues and facilitators on real life examples.

There's An Incident at School and You Must Decide How to Act....

Before you initiate an investigation you need to understand what guides your actions. Before you respond to an expulsion report you need to know what factors to consider. Before you advise your client, you need to understand all the specifics of the situation.

As an educator, school board official, advocate or advisor, you know that student discipline has been at the forefront of legal challenges and significant amendments in recent years. Your role and responsibilities in this area have shifted and without a thorough understanding of the legal regime governing your actions, you could find yourself facing tremendous scrutiny and potential liability.

Using case studies and real life examples this BRAND NEW OsgoodePD program, developed by education law experts will provide you with a comprehensive understanding of the most pertinent legal issues, best practices & tips that you confront when dealing with student discipline investigations.

How You Apply What You've Learned is Crucial...

The afternoon break-out sessions will allow you to take on the role of one of the parties, roll up your sleeves and put into practice what you've learned from the earlier sessions.

You will gain practical knowledge & best practices you can put to work the next time you conduct an investigation.

What Guides Your Actions? The Statutory Framework Surrounding Student Discipline Investigations

ROBERT G. KEEL, Keel Cottrelle LLP

It is critical that you have a thorough understanding of the legal regime that governs your actions in conducting student discipline investigations. In addition to being on top of any relevant Board policies, procedures, guidelines, and relevant Ministry of Education PPM's, you must understand how the following applies:

- The Education Act and Regulations
- Youth Criminal Justice Act ("YCJA")
- Criminal Code ("CC")
- Child and Family Services Act
- Ontario Human Rights Code ("OHRC")
- Police Protocols
- Ontario Schools Code of Conduct

Responding to an Incident: Your Preliminary Considerations

SHEILA M. MACKINNON, Shibley Righton LLP

Before you delve into an investigation there are considerations that may guide your actions. Here are some questions to ask yourself at the outset:

- Does the situation call for suspension/recommendation for expulsion?
- What does your school boards' policy say about "mitigating and other factors"?
- Have you considered timelines set out in the Education Act?
- Do the allegations necessitate reporting to the police or CAS?
- How do you ensure compliance with YCJA confidentiality protections?
- Have you reviewed Board policies and procedures?
- What information can you share with staff or students to facilitate the investigation?

Tips & Best Practices to Conducting an Investigation

COLIN FLEMING, Protective Services Consultant, OPC

JOSEPH GEISER, Protective Services Coordinator, CPCO

NICOLA SIMMONS, Keel Cottrelle LLP

You've decided an investigation is appropriate. Here's what you need to understand as you move forward:

- Who do you interview and in what order?
- What types of questions should you be asking?

- Who should be present for the interviews? Parents?
- What steps should you be taking to preserve confidentiality?
- What are your duties to the student who is the subject of the investigation?
 - opportunity to respond; presumption of innocence; fair treatment; objectivity
- What do you consider in determining the appropriate action?
 - the student and their circumstances
 - nature and severity of the behaviour
 - impact on the school climate
 - "mitigating and other factors"
 - is discipline appropriate? What discipline?
 - what to do where the student facing allegations has a disability including mental health concerns?
